SEIZURE OF VESSELS FLYING AMERICAN FLAG BRINGS FORTH STRONG PROTEST FROM THE U.S.

Demand is Made Upon Britain to Explain Taking of Tanker.

HUGE BATTLE YET UNDECIDED

Actions in the North of France With Unholy Violence; British Navy Preparing for Action; German Cruiser Enden Again English Ship

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, October 21.—The United States has protested to Great Britain against the seizure by a British warship of the American tank steamer "John D. Rockefeller."

This was announced today by Acting Secretary Lansing of the State Department.

As the Rockefeller was American-owned and flew the American flag, and no change of registry was involved, the American government considers the seizure unparliamentary. The ship was bound from one neutral port to another, leaving Dunkirk on September 2 for Copenhagen and carried illuminating oil, which Secretary Lansing said had not been classed as contraband. An indemnification received from Great Britain. The vessel was taken to the Orkney Islands.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Standard Oil Company steamer Platirina with the American flag has been seized by British warships off the coast of Ireland and taken into Scapa Flow, a port on the Orkney Islands, according to a cablegram received here today by the company from her captain.

The Standard Oil Company has requested the State Department to make another protest on the seizure of the Platirina which is identical, the company claims, with the circumstances attending the seizure of the Befindila.

The Platirina, formerly the German steamer Dittmar, changed her flag shortly before sailing from New York October 6.

BELIEVE BRITISH FLEET PROTECTS MILES' WING.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, via wireless to Sayville, Oct. 21.—According to information given out in Berlin today there has been no change of importance in the military positions on the wings or in the center of the western theatre of war.

The military expert of the Kreutz-Zeltweg estimates the losses of the French, the British, the Russians and the Belgians in killed, wounded and prisoners at least three-quarters of a million men.

He continued to fight back and forth along the battle line in France and Belgium in the south from trenches, woods and villages, and to the north over a web of waterways the presence of which seems likely to give the strength the name of the battle of the canals.

It was a strange coincidence that Britain learned on Saturday Day for the first time officially that the British fleet was cooperating with the allied fleet in the battle of Ostend that the British had left the allied line. What news has been made in the vicinity and south of Ostend is not disclosed in the latest official communication in Paris which contained itself with saying that the Belgians are resisting attacks on the Yser.

When units of the fleet are harboring in the ports of Dover of course are not known, but the presence of squadrons has been mentioned which uphold the theory advanced soon after the Germans took Ostend that the British had left the allied line. What news has been made in the vicinity and south of Ostend is not disclosed in the latest official communication in Paris which contained itself with saying that the Belgians are resisting attacks on the Yser.

Violent German outbreaks at other points, it was claimed, also were checked but it was noteworthy that no progress anywhere was claimed by either side. It is naturally the allied contention that the outcome of the German advance on the coast towns, now seeming to have been swept off the map, is to be virtually cut and German forces in the vicinity of Ostend will be beaten back with crushing defeat.

All reports, however, agreed that the Germans are bringing all available reinforcements and that it will require a great deal of British skill to make them withdraw.

The power of the English fleet and her ascendancy over the sea are slowly becoming factors in the great war. England has been fretting in the face of a situation which she so far has precluded any general engagement with the German fleet. Thus the mention of British ships as being active off the Belgian coast is ruled with particularly public satisfaction.

All reports that the allied had retaken Ostend proved incorrect and not much faith is placed in dispatches saying that they had occupied Ostend if they had done so it would mean the German line has been pushed so far back as to be virtually cut and German forces in the vicinity of Ostend isolated.

There is a decided bend in the neutrals, however, as compared with the line which recently stretched due south from Ostend through Ypres to Lille.

Dispatches afford no new interpretation of the coalition operations to the east and it may take the coming winter to decide even the preliminary stages of the struggle between the various and the Austro-German forces. Reports of a battle in the Baltic sea between German torpedo and hostile submarines are unconfirmed, neither is the German report that a British submarine has been destroyed in the North Sea.

An attempted revolution at Beira and Mafra in Portugal is attributed here to Royalists whose object is to prevent Portugal joining the allies apparently met with short shrift Portuguese military preparations are said to be proceeding actively.

PIERCE BATTLE AT HEIGHT TO NORTH OF THE LINE.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, October 21.—The outcome of the battle in the north, according to the judgment of observers in Paris, still remained undecided this morning. The turbulent combat in this part of the continent and France is now regarded here as having reached its height.

The Germans who at first apparently yielded to the offensive of the allies are now forcing to the maximum the lines of the French and the English. In this they have been assisted by troops from Antwerp and all the other German forces available in Belgium.

The allies, however, apparently are fighting with the greatest vigor and determination to take the important city of Lille in spite of the extraordinary resistance of the enemy.

The attack of the allies which have been accompanied by progress at various points have been followed always by猛烈的 counter attacks on the part of the Germans who, in the opinion of the French, are fighting to the limit of their energy.

Around Lille and in the thickly populated districts where the fighting has been from house to house the operations have been difficult and protracted but slow, especially in face of the barbed wire defenses put up by the Germans.

GERMANS ESTIMATE ALLIES' LOSSES AT 750,000 MEN.

THE DOWNFALL AND THE UPLIFT.

Each and every one of the 19,000 idle coke ovens in the Connellsville region is a Material Issue in this campaign.

A Democratic vote is a vote to keep these ovens cold and smokeless; a Republican vote is a vote to fire them up again.

The political sky is dark with fads and isms, but to the coke workers and the people of the coke region generally they are uninteresting.

It's a fine thing to save the nation and your neighbor by giving your time and means and votes to the promoters and the candidates of some Uplift Movement which has for its primary object the uplifting to office and the placing in political power of a combination of Pharisees and Hypocrites seeking self-aggrandizement, but when they ask that it be done at the expense of the voter's prosperity he very wisely and properly gives it pause.

That Reform which taketh away the bread from the mouths of women and children is not the kind of Reform that is good for the Workingman. Democratic Reform has closed down half the ovens in the Connellsville coke region and the closing movement still continues.

The Uplift which the Connellsville region needs most at this time is a restoration of Republican Rule, Republican Policy and Republican Prosperity.

The Uplift movement of 1912 has proven to be a hard Downfall. There's no use crying about that mistake. The thing to do now is to remedy it as quickly as possible, and the first step in that direction is to vote the Republican ticket this fall.

SHOWMAN REPLIES TO SLAM AND FLAYS THE DEMOCRATS

He Exposes Their Sham Promises as to Stand on the Liquor Question; Breaks No Pledge.

The Connellsville News does not seem to approve my course in this campaign and in once attempts to convince me of insincerity, but I will take my case before the voters of Fayette county.

In the first place the Democratic party is not committed to either local option or prohibition, and if you will recall the words of Vice President Marshall, uttered very recently, you will remember that he says it is useless for the friends of temperance to expect any favorable legislation at the hands of the present Democratic Congress for the majority is against such legislation.

I have not deserted the Progressive party, but in instances where we have been deprived of a candidate I have used my best judgment in selecting a man for whom to vote. As to my attitude on the temperance question I will say if this question is put squarely before the people, stripped of personal feeling and partisan rancor, my vote will always be on the side of temperance. But it must not be inferred that because of a desire to please local leaders or disgruntled politicians of Fayette county have taken this means of trying to delude the people.

I will be a party to this fraud.

A member of our Bible class takes me to task for slandering and circulating a temperance petition in the class and then not laying up in its provisions, but if this brother will take the trouble to inform himself he will find that I have not violated its provisions. As I recall the result was not blinding until 1916. So then, you are hiding your treachery to the people behind the cause of righteouslyness, will have to come again.

In conclusion allow me to ask a pertinent question: Who are the men, and by what authority did they act, when they took the name of J. W. Dawson off our ticket and wrote in the stand the name of D. M. Hertzog?

MAY HAVE SPECIAL CAR

Big Delegation to Accompany High School Team to Johnstown.

If enough students and football fans announce their intention of accompanying the high school football team to Johnstown Saturday, a big delegation will be chartered. Efforts are being made to have a big delegation for when Johnstown played here last year, the players had about 100 rooting several newspapermen and spectators. That will be a good possession of the team for the return of prosperity.

Tearing into the Democratic leaders, Mr. MacQuarrie exclaimed, "They promise you reform! Ed. Higbee and his partner, Bruce F. Sterling, promise reform! They promise you workingmen a compensation act. Before you put confidence in them in their new role as friends of labor investigate their past conduct in this regard. Every lawsuit against labor unions in this county since I have been a resident was instituted through Sterling and Higbee. I examine the records of the court of common pleas and investigate the cases."

Mr. MacQuarrie discussed the suit of the Sligo Iron & Steel Company against the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tinplate Workers, the Mounts Creek miners and the Coke City miners in the common pleas court of Fayette county. He pointed out that in this famous suit Higbee opposed the labor interests in Connellsville. He called attention to the suit in the Fayette county court in the Illinois II. Burford case. In this case, Higbee fought to have the laborer chained to the company store by prohibiting other concern than the companies themselves from delivering goods to persons living at the coke plants.

The speaker pointed out that Sterling is at the head of the Democratic party in Fayette county and that should the Democratic candidates to the state senate and assembly be elected, he would dictate to them in their new role as friends of labor.

The present conditions in the coke industry which are attributed to legislation enacted by the Democratic administration were discussed by Attorney D. W. Henderson, D. M.

E. J. McDaniels said that the presence and attention of the large body of voters was a good indication that they were interested in their own betterment.

PETITIONER SAYS HE WAS DECEIVED BY STERLING MAN

James O'Donnell Asks That His Name be Taken Off List.

MISREPRESENTATION IS ALLEGED

"Phantoms" in Sixth Ward Turn Out to be Old Residents Who Have Voted There for Years; Hearing at City Hall Tomorrow Morning at 10.

Probably the hardest blow the local Democratic machine has suffered is a petition that James O'Donnell, one of the signers attacking the right of the registered voters of the First and Sixth wards to cast their ballot, has presented to the county commissioners. O'Donnell asks that his name be stricken off the petition on the ground that it was obtained under false pretenses.

The Higbee-McGinnis machine is having hard steading in Connellsville. The attack upon the registration of voters here at the time been taken seriously. It has been shown, and it will be proven before the county commissioners in the hearing to be tomorrow at 10 that the men who have registered have the right to vote. Because the men whose right to cast the ballot has been attacked have engaged legal counsel, the personal newspaper organ of Higbee and McGinnis has gone into hysterics again.

Apparently the Higbee-McGinnis machine expected that the voters under fire would sit quietly by and permit themselves to be euchiied. O'Donnell, however, has knocked the props from under the proposition right from the start. He has exposed the methods by which the grandstand attempt to "jungle" the registry lists here were made.

MRS. CARMAN FIRED SHOT WHICH KILLED PATIENT, MAID SAYS

Accuses Physician's Wife as Mrs. Bailey's Slayer.

SENT BULLET THROUGH WINDOW

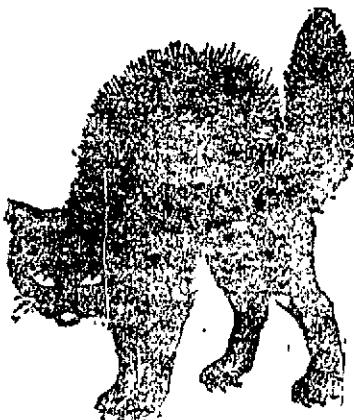

"I Shot Him," Celia Coleman Declares. Mrs. Carman said as she returned from porch after firing bullet through window, witness admits.

By Associated Press.
MINOT, N. D., Oct. 21.—Celia Coleman, negro maid in the Carman household and star witness for the state, testified today at the trial of Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, accused of the murder of Mrs. Louisa Bailey, that Mrs. Carman had appeared revolver in hand a moment after Mrs. Bailey had been shot and said, "I shot him."

"The next morning about daylight Mrs. Carman came to my room. She was dressed in a nightgown. She said, 'Oh, what did I kill that woman for? I hope God will forgive me. You stick to me and if anything happens to you I will take care of your little boy.'

Under the questioning of District Attorney Smith, Celia told her story as follows:

"I am from Charleston, S. C. I went to work at Dr. Carman's May 19, 1914. On the night of June 30 I

What Happened to the Cats?

Not long ago the U. S. Gov't. made some experiments to determine the poisoning qualities of caffeine (the drug in coffee.)

Twenty-seven healthy cats were given an average dose of 5-4-5 grains of caffeine—about as much of the drug as is contained in 2 cups of coffee.

What do you suppose happened?

The Cats all Died!

See Gov't. Bulletin No. 148, Bureau of Chemistry.

Of course they were only cats.

But there are plenty of people who dose themselves with enough caffeine every day to kill a cat and Cripple a Man, not at one blow, but by little blows repeated daily.

Of course some systems are strong enough to stand all kinds of abuse, but most systems are not. And when a man or woman observes a growing nervousness or sleeplessness, heart trouble, stomach-ache, bowel or eye disturbance, it is time to quit coffee and turn to a real food-drink, free from the coffee-drug, "caffeine."

It is easy to shift from coffee to

POSTUM

For in POSTUM one gets a delicious drink with the true nourishment of whole wheat from which it is made. Postum is roasted (like coffee) with a bit of wholesome molasses, looks like coffee and has a delightful flavor resembling Old Dutch Java, but is entirely free from the coffee-drug, caffeine, or any other drug or harmful substance.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum which must be boiled. Instant Postum—soluble form—made in the cup instantly with hot water. Grocers sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM served dinner at 6-15 o'clock. After dinner I started to wash the dishes. While I was washing the dishes, Elizabeth, Mrs. Carman's daughter came into the kitchen. Soon afterwards Mrs. Carman came in. She was dressed in a kimono and had a shawl around her neck. She told Elizabeth to go back into the house. Then Mrs. Carman went out the back door. A minute later I heard a crash of glass and the report of a pistol. Mrs. Carman came in the door again.

"I was standing at the door between the pantry and the kitchen. She said to me, 'I shot him.' When she showed me a revolver a black revolver it was about nine inches long, I grabbed her by the arm and told her not to go into the office. She said she was not going to do anything else. Then I went into the office.

"The body of a dead white woman was laying on the floor near the operating chair. Mrs. Carman followed me into the office. She stayed there about half a minute and then went out to the waiting room. Doctor Carman was there and so was another man. I went into the kitchen and returned to the office in about a minute. Mrs. Powell (Mrs. Carman's sister) was in there then. Then I went back into the kitchen. I had been watching the dishes and went to my room and went to sleep.

"Mr. Conklin, her father, came in and went to his room and then came downstairs again. He had a hammer with him. He returned to the burn.

The next day, Wednesday, Mrs. Carman came into the kitchen and asked me what I knew. I told Mr. Levy that I didn't know anything.

"Mr. Levy came again the next day. Before he came Mrs. Carman told me to tell him I was not downstairs after dinner. She wrote out some statement and I signed it without reading it. He read it, however. The statement was not true.

"The day after the murder Mrs. Carman came into the kitchen and asked me to make a wood fire in the stove, which I did. Later she came into the kitchen with a bundle of letters and burned them up in the fire. That same day she told me to call her father from the barn because she wanted him to get the revolver out of the house.

"Mr. Conklin, her father, came in and went to his room and then came downstairs again. He had a hammer with him. He returned to the burn.

The next day, Wednesday, Mrs. Carman came into the kitchen and asked me to step into the office. I went in and the detectives began to question me."

"You tell the truth at the coroner's inquest," the district attorney asked.

"I did not," the witness answered.

The district attorney then turned the witness over to John J. Graham, Mrs. Carman's counsel, for cross-examination.

For an hour and a half Mr. Graham alternately shouted at Celia and pleaded with her, seeking to make her vary her story. She admitted that she was living in New York city at the expense of Nunes county; also that she had testified falsely in many respects at the coroner's inquest, but denied that she had done so to shield Mrs. Carman and the administration apparently did not disturb her continually.

A crowd that eclipsed the previous day's throng sought to enter the tiny courtroom today in anticipation of hearing Celia tell her story. Less than 200 were able to do so and those were nearly all women.

WORD FROM RELATIVES

Mrs. Anna Reichenbach Gets Postcards From Herda.

Mrs. Anna Reichenbach has received several post cards from her father, S. H. Reichenbach and her sister, Mrs. M. Gleickman, who live in Rauso. It was the first word received from them since the outbreak of the war, and knowing they were located in the war zone Mrs. Reichenbach was greatly alarmed over their safety. The cards were mailed from Ziemer, a small town in Russia, about two months ago and Mr. Reichenbach stated they were in great need of money.

Feeling for their home they had to desert their home at Kowna, and flee for Ziemer, where, when the cards were written they were staying with Mrs. Gleickman, a daughter of Mrs. M. Gleickman, and a practicing dentist at Ziemer. Mrs. Gleickman is the mother of Joseph Gleickman and Mrs. Gleickman of Connellsville. An effort is being made by sons of Mr. Reichenbach to forward him money.

PROF. DOUGLAS DIES

Head of Local Business College Passes Away at His Home in McKeesport.

Prof. Warren W. Douglas, head of the string of Douglas Business Colleges, died at his home in McKeesport last night, after an illness which dated back to a stroke of paralysis suffered December 1913. He was 64 years old. He leaves a widow and one son, Septimus W. Douglas, an attorney in Pittsburgh.

Douglas was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and was active in church and commercial work practically all his life. He owned and operated four business colleges at McKeesport, Charleroi, Uniontown and Connellsville. The local school was established 14 years ago.

Out of respect to the memory of its founder, the Connellsville school closed today for the remainder of the week.

WILL DISCUSS PLANS

Men of Dawson Church to Meet at Linden Hall.

The men of the Cochran Memorial Methodist Church at Dawson will meet Friday night at "Linden Hall," the home of Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran to make plans for an every-member canvas Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. At the recent meeting of the Pittsburgh conference a new financial plan was adopted. An every-member canvas is to be made for the support of the church and benevolent purposes.

All men of the church are urged to attend. There will be no obligation to accommodate men at a time. About 100 are expected.

SCOTTDALE, Oct. 21.—The rummage sale which was conducted by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. in the Murphy building on Broadway, three days this week, brought in over $100 and not all of the clothing, suits, etc. donated was disposed of. The women in charge of this second annual sale there is a general understanding of having things about, for many, both foreign and native born persons, who come in to buy clothing as "that the men who had been out of work from three to six months, when we sold it, had not the means to buy it again." The rummage sale did a great deal of good in the community, for all the clothing and shoes were sold at very low prices and will aid to protect the people against the weather.

Mrs. Jane F. Hayes announced the marriage of her daughter, Nellie Virginia Hayes, of Scottdale, and William T. McGoogan, of Pittsburgh, at the Presbyterian manse, Scottdale, Rev. J. E. Hutchison officiating, on Wednesday. After an extended eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. McGoogan will live in Scottdale.

NOTES

Mrs. William R. Stannard, of Houston, Tex., arrived here on Saturday to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dick.

Mrs. A. W. Strickler and Mrs. Frances M. Strawn were to Wilkinsburg on Tuesday to visit Mrs. D. P. Stoner and from there to go to McKeensport to see Mrs. William K. Herbst who is very ill.

Rev. H. D. Allan, pastor of the Baptist church, and A. L. Rosenthal, an official, left Tuesday for Berwick to attend the Baptist convention.

Mrs. Maurice A. Bonner went to Pittsburgh on Tuesday morning.

Porto—Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lowe, on Monday, their daughter, Mrs. Werner is principal of the Scottdale High school. Both he and Mrs. Lowe were present. Some country people, who have made Scottdale their home for a couple of years.

Miss L. Robertson left on Monday for Erie, Pa., to attend the meeting of the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Sarah Miller of Hawley was taken to the Passavant Hospital, Pittsburgh, on Tuesday for treatment. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Ellis Pratt and Rev. C. E. Stouch, pastor of the Lutheran church.

The condition of Mrs. Horner D. Strickler, wife of the Broadway baker, who is seriously injured from an automobile accident, several weeks ago, continues to be a slow stage of improvement, and it is hoped she may be brought home from the Grounds by a hospital this week.

Miss Jessie Leonard, teacher of domestic science in the Scottdale High school, who was operated on for appendicitis a couple of weeks ago, and who was able to come home from the hospital, has suffered a relapse.

Mrs. J. P. K. Miller and Mrs. J. R. Hutchinson were in Uniontown Tuesday visiting friends.

Mrs. Charles A. Tutt of Uniontown, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Fortier.

Mrs. Theodore Parker and Miss Parker of Rochester, were here visiting the former's daughter, Mrs. C. B. McMillan this week.

Miss Hollinger Shaffer of Ruffsdale was shopping here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Berg of town and Mr. Nancy Pratt of Pittstown motored over to Indian Head Saturday and remained until Monday. Visit to their sister, Mrs. Rebecca Witt.

Mrs. Jacob Leacock and daughter, Miss Patience, of Minot, Pleasant, were visiting their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Kough of Pittstown on Thursday.

Misses Nello and Charlotte Milligan of Pittstown rendered "The Lost Chord" as a violin and piano duet, in a very clever fashion at the opening exercises at the Scottdale Methodist Sunday school on Sunday morning.

The Daily Day service at the Iron Bridge Methodist Sunday school was a complete success on Sunday afternoon, about 10 pupils and students being present. Mrs. John B. Riebe of Scottdale delivered a very interesting address on Africa. Rev. H. B. Myers, also one of his usual excellent talkers, Misses Lee Anna, Thora and Edna Crosby sang a duet and Misses Nello and Charlotte Milligan of Pittstown in a song. Superintendent and Mr. Edward Wardlow deserve much credit for this excellent Sunday school which they have built up.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Zimmerman went to Pittsburgh on Tuesday.

IF YOUR SKIN ITCHES, JUST USE RESINOL

The moment that Resinol Ointment touches itching skin, the itching stops and healing begins. That is why doctors have prescribed it successfully for many years. It is on the severest cases of eczema, dermatitis, acne, rashes, and other tormenting, unsightly skin eruptions. Aided by warm baths with Resinol Soap, Resinol Ointment restores the skin to perfect health and comfort, quickly, easily and at little cost.

You need never hesitate to use Resinol. It contains absolutely nothing that could injure the tenderest skin—even of a tiny baby. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. All druggists sell Resinol Ointment (50c. and 35c.) and Resinol Soap (25c.). For further, write to Dept. K.C., Resinol Ointment Co., Ad. Avoid substitutes by calling for "Resinol" by name. Therapeutic dealers sometimes offer worthless imitations.

SIMPLY BREATHE IT

That's the Way You Use Hymol, the Safe Cough Remedy.

The most pleasant, easiest, harmless, and the really sensible method for the cure of a cough is Hymol, which can and does any day stop it. Just pull two drops of the fluid in the mouth in the throat that comes with every complete outfit—then breathe it. A few minutes' use almost instantly clears the head and stops that annoying sneezing.

When using Hymol every particle of air that enters the breathing organs is charged with an antiseptic, healing balsam that destroys the catarrh germs, stops the unclean discharges from the nose, relieves the irritation and quickly heals the sore and inflamed tissues. The first day's use of Hymol will show a decided improvement no matter how distressing the trouble.

Catarrh, which usually begins with a neglected cold, often becomes a very serious ailment, so don't wait but pull Hymol in the mouth. It is literally a "cure-all." A. Clark always sells it on the "No-cure-no-pay" plan.—Adv.

A Pertinent Question

The question has been asked, "In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to pills?" The answer is, "They are more mild and gentle in effect and more reliable. Besides they improve the appetite, cleanse and invigorate the stomach, correct disorders of the liver and leave the bowels in a natural and healthy condition, while the use of pills owing to their drastic effect, is often followed by constipation." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

RIGHT AND WRONG MEN.

The Democratic arguments in this campaign are unique, but perhaps one of the most edifying is that Pennsylvania should elect Palmer to the Senate and Carr to the house because they stand high with the Democratic administration which is in power at Washington, and will consequently be in position to "do things" while Penrose in the Senate and Hopwood in the house will be representatives of an impotent minority.

The argument assumes more than is generally conceded, namely, that the Republican party will be a minority party in the next congress. The country is thoroughly disgusted with incompetent Democratic administration. The times are bad and they are not getting any better.

The European war excuse doesn't go with the people. Too many of them have cause to know that the hard times arrived ahead of the war.

The Democratic Tariff law has changed the balance of trade from a balance in our favor to a balance against us. When a nation sells more than it buys it is prosperous; when it buys more than it sells it is on the highway to adversity.

The fact is too painfully apparent to the closed mind, until it is forced to consider it in Pennsylvania where far worse of any sort exists. The Democratic organs are offering a desperate defense business in order to elect Penrose, but in every part of the country, especially those sections where industrial life exists.

The Democrats ask the voter to send Palmer and Carr and others to congress in order that they may continue to "do things" like this.

The Republicans ask the voter to send Penrose and Hopwood and others to congress to stop this Democratic work and to undo it as soon as possible.

A Republican house will stop the work at once, restore business confidence and do much to make better industrial conditions. A Republican senate could do no more. The country will have two more years of President Wilson. His hands will be tied, but he may give ear to the expressed will of the people.

Neither Penrose nor Hopwood nor a Republican house nor a Republican senate nor a Republican congress, generally or in combination, can repeal the iniquitous Democratic Tariff law; but they will give the country hope, while the endorsement of the Democratic administration by the election of Democratic senators and congressmen will hasten the cruel yoke of Democratic policy more firmly upon the necks of the suffering people.

The statement we send to Washington should be read, with care, by all. Doing Things will do the Right Things and not the Wrong Things.

That is why the voter will be wise to vote the Republican ticket.

IN THE SADDLE.

The South is in the saddle again. It has passed a "Tariff Bill" which has crippled the industries of the North. It has imposed an income Tax which has been paid by the North. It has added a War Tax which will come chiefly from the North, now it demands that the government buy its cotton crop with the proceeds of taxes levied from Northern business crippled by the incompetent statesmanship of the Democratic South.

In 1912 a great many good people thought we needed a change and that there was no longer any serious difference of governmental policy dividing the great political parties. It was a great mistake and most of those who made it now painfully acknowledge it and announce their intention of doing their best to remedy it by voting the Republican ticket in November. That's the plain and practical remedy.

"Bob" Hopwood resents the statement of the opposition organs that he is in bad company on the Republican ticket. He says it's the same kind of company he has been in all his life and in which he expects to stay until he dies. "Bob" is accused of being a "Shouting Methodist," he is also a shouting Republican. That's the kind of men we need in Congress. Vote the Republican ticket "Bob's" on it.

The women of the Connellsville Culture Club are respectfully reminded that from all accounts there is not much culture in militant suffrage.

If there was nothing the matter in the B. & O. yards Monday night somebody made a lot of noise about it, and somebody ought to be arrested and tried for the intolerable nuisance of awakening the whole town at the ungodly hour of three o'clock in the morning. We would suggest that the authorities begin at the superintendent's office where the ignorance seems to be most dense.

The Trotter tractancy knows that environment is no bar to the Slavish heritage of romance and passion.

Washington county will have three new coal towns with the developments of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. These towns would all be for Penrose, but he has enough votes without them.

Hunting chicken thieves is great sport up Somerset way.

The hunting season opens anspel-en is hot, the biggest fun just now is shooting Democratic traps.

Paul Manz is still missing so are the reasons for continued Democratic administration.

Connellsville needs a better public charity organization, something that will do away with donated hogback and its attendant evils.

MILITARY LAW.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Shaws."

The Uhlans, who are now being used by French and Belgian nurses to frighten the children to sleep, are not a tribe or a lodge, as has been suspected by many puzzled readers. They are a variety of cavalry. They are not even necessarily German, Russian and Austria also possess Uhlans, but the Germans are by far the most dangerous to have around.

The Uhlans were invented by the Tartars, who came into Central Europe hundreds of years ago, from Asia and introduced their justly celebrated spear into the midst of the inhabitants with great industry. At that time the Uhlans wore a stout horse, a sabre and a lance with a red cloth on it. The red cloth was used to frighten the enemy, but of late years it has been found that a press agent is much more effective.

Uhlans infested Europe through all the middle ages, but they rose to their greatest fame in 1770, when Prussia sent many thousands of them over into France to ramble through the country. The Uhlans did this with great success and made themselves so disagreeable that a French cannon would run away without horses at the sight of them. The Uhlans roamed in horseback, cavalry, around and through the French infantry, clinging on to the backs of with their sabre swords, climbing railroads, capturing cannon and making themselves an disagreeable as a big boy in a game of marbles. When the war was over, the Uhlans had made their reputation and they have helped to keep Europe nervous ever since.

In the present war, the Uhlans have been very busy, as usual, and

CROW'S CHARGES, TEARING MASK FROM PALMER, STIR VOTERS OF KEYSTONE STATE

State Chairman Exposes
Congressman as a Lobbyist.

TELLS OF HIS DOUBLE DEALING

Hypocrite of Democratic Candidate for United States Senator Made Public to the People of Pennsylvania,
Mud Slinging by Democrats

Philadelphia, Oct. 19.—Two searching accusations of a Mitchell Palmer
by Republican State Chairman William P. Crow in which the mark of deceit used by the Democrats can be seen for United States senator to cover a record of corporation control was torn away, have been the recent features of the political campaign in Pennsylvania. Senator Crow was in the senate while Palmer was lobbying for the railroad companies, and the information is, therefore, first hand and official.

According to Senator Crow, the present Democratic candidate for United States senator fought the two cent fare bill, the employers liability bill, the trolley freight bill, the rail road commission act, the bill to limit franchises of public utility corporations, the bill to prevent unfair distribution of cars to patrons of railroads, the measure to break up the combination of railroads and mining companies, the bill to prohibit unreasonable discrimination on freight, the bill to abolish railroad crossings, and also the proposed act to prevent the gouging up by railroads of competing lines.

As the Scranton Tribune remarked admirably, after comparing the statements of Senator Crow and Palmer,
"a nice man to go parading about the state asserting his own private and political virtues and abusing 'P.A.' in terrible Pennsylvania and the people like others before him who will say that he cannot 'feel all of the people all of the time'."

Old Tactics of Democracy.

The hypocrisy of Palmer and others of his ilk in trying to becloud this is seen by assailing men of respectability in nothing new to Democratic politics.
For forty years mud slinging has been the chief weapon of Democratic campaigning.

Away back in 1880 the martyred president, James A. Garfield, was killed a thief prior to his election. In 1881 James G. Blaine the Republican candidate for president was pictured as the tattooed man of political crookedness. President Harrison did not escape characterization, and even the mentioned McKinley was charged with having received from his dependents thousand dollars in a suit out to Mark Hanna and vicious money in trusts. But the people are not fooled every year. In 1890, following the abominable tariff for revenue only administration of Grover Cleveland, the voters were quite willing to elect Will McKinley, even though he was pictured in the Democratic newspapers clothed in a prison garb plastered with dollar marks. The country then had passed through the same sad experience that it is passing through now as the result of tariff bickering.

It has not been so many years ago since it required a Democratic candidate for governor four years to dig himself out from under the Republican majority that was piled on him, but it will take Vance McCormick a much longer time than that.

It appears to be a crime for the friends of Senator Penrose to spend money legitimately to advance his re-election but Vance McCormick can spend two of thousands of dollars to bag the Democratic nomination for governor, and never a whimper from the self-named "dems."

In Philadelphia police circles there is a great fear that on election day there will be rioting and disorders caused by the wild rush of the thousands of unemployed to vote against the prosperity-wrecking Democratic ticket.

Colonel Roosevelt, it will be noted, has neither excommunicated Dick Quay for his apostasy to the twin Bull Moosers Flinn and Van Winkleburg nor will all the press on the range for themselves, nor will a hill even with his royal displeasure for his new effort to lead the unhappy herd back to the old ranch.

There are nearly fifty-seven varities of Democrats in Philadelphia many represented by either secret or open organization, and the stoolie is the emblem of each. Look like an Italian or a Chinese long fied. The federal corn crib is the cause for this demoralization and division.

Signs of "I'm in" on empty dwellings in the great mill districts of North Philadelphia are, like the sounds of the sea, appealing in their numbers.
The silence of the stricken tariff fortress mills and of Crown shirpford and the Baldwin Locomotive works have caused this stat nation in real estate families in order to reduce expense and keep from starvation are not only doubling up but three and four families are now living in one house. And this is the prosperity that was so vaunted under the Wilson Lindley tariff bill.

I'm measured to originally I shall work in Philadelphia I expect that does not titillate, through the enforced closing of mills and workshops and curling mills of various lines of industry because of Democratic tariff bill bringing in even more acute and widespread than it was during the Cleveland free soup soup period. The workingman who votes the Democratic ticket now is simply voting bread from the mouths of his wife and children.

The reorganization which constituting the fifty-seven varieties of Democrats, having hogged all the federal patronage of the state, notwithstanding that the Old Guard at the Baltimore convention loyally helped Bryan to put over Woodrow Wilson, now views with apprehension and pain
"that third feeling" toward the Palmer McCormick ticket that is shown by those who have been denoted the "goodies." In vain their hand plays
"Yes, we shall gather at the River."

The quip told of Colonel Roosevelt that when he attends a wedding he is jealous because he is not the bridegroom, and a funeral because he is not the corpse no longer will dismay him as applying to the funeral. He will soon have the privilege—in no way of attending the funeral or the Washington party.

It is worthy of note that the great majority of leading citizens of Philadelphia who love their town so well that they are opposing a Philadelphia United States senator, were born elsewhere but have accumulated their fortune and their reputations in the state's metropolis. They have a catch phrase—Philadelphia City. As to city pride, they have none and may be blown to the Ishmaelites.

It is not singular that the liberty loving German-American citizens, who have brought their "Personal Liberty party" into active play in this campaign should have taken Republicans for their state candidates. The Democratic party always has been the avowed enemy of personal liberty.
During the War of the rebellion the north was filled with Democratic cappards who believed in slavery and opposed the Union cause.

If any chance existed at all of the political allies worshipping Pennsylvania's
"straw votes" taken in cigar stores, in mills and on railroad trains, supporting the claim would now be the order of the day and even the politically inexpert would be able to "feel it in the air" but a "straw vote" has not appeared in a newspaper of the allies.

Not many influential associations or civil reform bodies have as yet known of record as condemnatory the use of such money by Vance McCormick to buy the Democratic nomination for governor. It is because McCormick's money is sacred or is regarded as money from heaven?

Could anything be more grotesquely ridiculous as Teddy Roosevelt at his Philadelphia meeting thundering against the political boss and Bill Tilden seated on the stage immediately behind him? Is it any wonder that many people laughed at the denunciation Bill Tilden, you know, is known in Pittsburgh politics as the "slave driver."

A Democrat must be a certain stripe of Democrat, a Palmer McCormick Democrat to obtain a federal job in Pennsylvania and none others need apply. And yet they wonder why the Old Guard adherents are not clinging like Jersey hummers birds for the Palmer McCormick ticket.

While "Mitch" Palmer is overstrain-ing his heart action to show that Democratic prosperity and good times is still with us the employment agencies in the larger cities of the state are chocked with applicants for jobs

The more an alleged independent new paper claims its independence the more it becomes so. So it is in this campaign. Every paper that is opposing the Republican ticket has degenerated into a common siley scold and a candidate for the ducking pool.

If the Palmer McCormick wing of the Democratic party imagined that spirit and loyalty of the Old Guard can be kept up until election day entirely on the smell from the kitchen it has got another think to register.

Palmer and McCormick should recall the celebrated admonition of Sam
Rundill when the late President Cleveland was refusing Democratic jobs during his first term, that "In order to maintain an army it must be fed." The Palmer McCormick kitchen is only open to original Palmer Mc-Cormick Democrats, and yet the Old Guard while treating on the husks is expected to enthuse over a called off.

It is the same story everywhere. Republicans who in 1912 were lured into the Progressive camp by the sugared tongue of Theodore Roosevelt, are flocking back to the old party. In some sections the Washington party leaders trying to round up their followers resembles a caveman shoveling up fleas with a shovel.

The phy which is not born of expertise in always cold—it cannot help being so, it does not understand.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes
—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known
Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for skin and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

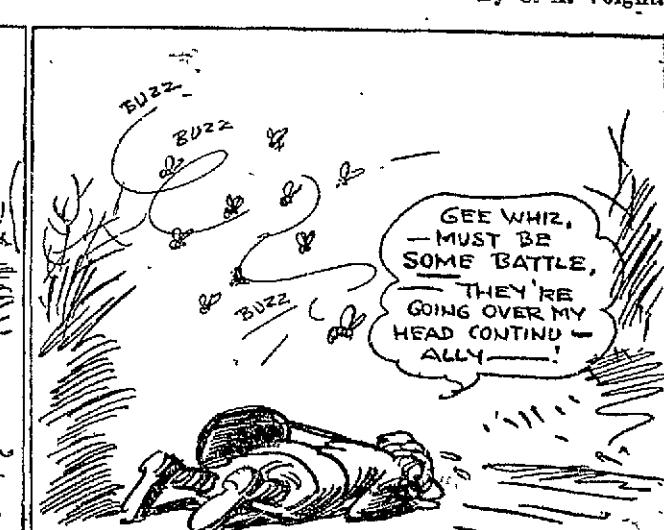

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that one's system collects. If you have a sore, aches, a dull, eye, pimpls, coated tongue, headaches, aches, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the change.

Thousands of women, as well as men, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets raw and just as you find the pink of condition.

A Story of War With Japan

By J. U. GIESY

Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

Between them they took the precious substance Meade had brought from the oasis and began to fashion it into the serpents.

By now another task was added to Meade's already heavy burden. In another part of the sky the magnetic bombs, which were to furnish the ammunition of the destroyers, were being prepared. Each day now Stillman entered a speedy machine and was driven to the ammunition factory to supervise the most important of the details attending their production.

Sometimes he stopped and took Berlinc with him that her presence, the sound of her voice, might rest him and give him back something of poise. More than she knew her influence helped to perfect the mighty engines of war.

It was the middle of February, and it had become evident that Japan intended to precipitate an engagement from the base the orientals had established. With somewhat anxious minds an inquiry was sent from the strategy board to Meade on the 18th asking for a definite date of completion for the aero destroyers. He replied that he would finish by the night of the 21st.

Berlinc and Darling and he had been adopted the natives. The original machine, the first laid down, was to be called the Miracle, and Meade had been specially commissioned to command her. The second would be captained by Darling, with Arkel as his lieutenant, and the third was to be named the Stillman, with Monsel, who had resigned from the board for the purpose, as her governing head.

Throughout the morning of the 20th Japan massed her fighting men along the front of the American position. About 2 p. m. on the 20th Japan opened her attack by a terrible movement directed against the American right flank. Until nightfall the battle raged fiercely with a frightful loss on the American side, due mostly to the long range work of the aerial bombs, which burst above their positions with telling effect.

Finally the Japanese army shattered the right wing of the American army, and our forces were compelled to take a new position.

The result was that the engagement of the 21st was fought a good many miles nearer the historic town of Gettysburg than that of the preceding day. And the second day was a greater exhibition of unrestrained slaughter than the one before.

It was decided to fall back still further toward Gettysburg and compel the enemy to follow, in the hope that the inevitable defeat might be postponed until the aero destroyer arrive during the next day, as promised.

The morning broke heavily overclouded, with a sultry cloud of chilled vapor shrouding the lower swales and hollows. The first of the aeroplane scouts darted up and whirled off to the south on the outlook for the Japanese advance. They flew sprang up along the American position, where the troops were making some sort of shift at a warm drink or a bite to eat.

All communistic arrangements had fallen inadequate in that hurried retreat to this new and final position. It was this sort of twiddling fire that through the mist which first met the eyes of Meade and Monsel, as they swam high above the plain.

They descended slowly in front of General Broderick's headquarters, and the news that the Miracle had arrived created a profound sensation. New hope rose in the hearts of the nation's defenders. General Broderick informed Meade that he could proceed against the invaders at once.

The Miracle rose and sped away on its strand of death.

The Japanese planes came in sight. Stillman nodded to Meade. "Use the small incendiary shells," he said.

The captain turned. His voice rang through the interior of the destroyer in crisp command.

"Load-tubes!"

Ten men leaped into action like hounds from the lair. From the ammunition boxes, standing ready with open lids, they lifted numbers of the magnetic bombs and thrust them into the pneumatic tubes which were to vomit them forth.

The Miracle rose and sped away on its strand of death.

"Load-tubes!"

Ten men leaped into action like hounds from the lair. From the ammunition boxes, standing ready with open lids, they lifted numbers of the magnetic bombs and thrust them into the pneumatic tubes which were to vomit them forth.

Monsel's lips snarled back. "Fire!" rang his command.

Plop! Plop! Plop! coughed the side tubes, fast bottoms, the rear. A venomous swarm of little shells darted from the great destroyer.

CHAPTER XVI.

Revenge For San Francisco.

BEHIND and below the Miracle rose a rending crackle of explosions in the air. Each time the bomb plunged downward like a vindictive hornet seeking a mark for its sting. The magnets in their heads drew them toward the muted parts of the Japanese planes. They darted in and out and clunk and exploded. A series of flashes sparkled along the line of stars like daylight fire.

unfold their wings and fly on their mission of death.

Even as he recognized the thought, layards snapped. A faint haze of smokeless powder rose from the biting muzzles of the great rifles, and their crews fell upon them for reloading.

Behind them an ammunition train stood parked, and from it other men were running to and fro with the bombs for the now open breeches.

"Get their range," snapped Stillman in a voice of supreme excitement.

"Fly hundred down, a thousand forward!" called Monsel. His tones quivered.

"Fly hundred down, a thousand forward!" barked the pointman.

Stillman swung the Miracle about.

"Hold hard, we'll get the concussion from this," he advised. "Now—if you are ready—fire!"

"Fire!" echoed Monsel.

The magnetic shells sprayed forward and down.

The Miracle shot upward to escape what must follow. Below, where the great guns rested, where the ammunition was parked, where the crews ran back and forth from caisson to gun or thrust the aerials into the breeches, a vast, wide flame sheet of fire and blue and yellow flame burst and spread into a whiplash of thunderous sound.

For an instant it seemed that some long hidden and imprisoned volcano had burst its bonds and spouted forth in a great pool of gaseous brilliance. Beneath that flaming maelstrom of death little black figures which were men ran and stumbled and fell and lay still, caught in its grasp, whirled madly with outstretched arms and sprawling legs, swirling around and around and over and over in the air, to fall back and lie in mangled bundles, or, still more savagely seized by an irresistible force of destruction, disintegrated into ghastly fragments which had been arms or legs or trunks a moment before.

What the magicians had started their concussion finished by exploding a great part of the aerial bombs themselves.

A thunderous concussion rose and grumbled, crushed and growled across the sunlit country. A tremor of the earth itself began and spread in shaking ripples, which might have been an earthquake in the seeming.

A vast wave of displaced air, compressed, forced back from the rarefied center of the disturbance, swept across the district until trees and bushes bent and swayed, and men within its range were thrown to earth by its terrific lash.

High though it rode, the Miracle, which had wrought the frightful calamity of wind and noise and fire, rocked and swayed and beat for her powerful gyroscopes, which kept it on an even keel, would have been engulfed in the destruction of its own making.

Over the very heart of the Japanese army Meade directed the Miracle.

Under Monsel's orders the tubes were again loaded with the deadly little shells, and as Stillman began moving slowly above the lines of the retreating army they sprayed upon them.

Again and again they spurted from the great bulk and fell in a ball of death upon the now terror-stricken men below. The retreat became a rout.

No longer was any semblance of order maintained. Artillerymen cut loose from their guns and left them fast in the mud of the fields. Infantry divisions and brigades and corps split asunder and became masses of flying men, who ran from an invisible foe—a something which buried death upon them.

The bombs fell and fell. They clung to the bodies of cannon, clung and stuck and burst. Even upon the barrels of rifles they tell and spread instant and dreadful destruction. As they ran the privates of the Japanese divisions threw away their weapons, stripped off their side arms, freed themselves of every metal object which might prove a lure for the clutching death which seemed to fly above their lines. The enemy was routed!

The news of the victory was flashed far and wide across the nation, wakening widespread jubilation. The name of the Miracle was on every speaking lip. In Chicago a celebration began at once and raged all day and most of the night.

It reached its climax of unrestrained excitement when the surrender of 30,000 Japanese was announced about 3 o'clock. Vast swarms marched through the streets, singing and shouting. President Wilson received congratulations from his cabinet with tears of relief and emotion in his eyes.

The board of strategy went into session and an order was issued to Darling and his assistant Arkel. It was briefly to take the Berlinc, now complete under Belden's efforts, and proceed eastward to capture or destroy the Japanese fleet in the Chesapeake and so cut off that chance of escape from the now doomed oriental forces.

Moning found the Berlinc within sight of the blue Chesapeake waters, flying steadily forward. A long line of gauzy shapes stretched beyond the mouth of the Potomac and they realized that their work was at hand. The feet opened fire. A fragment of a bursting shell crashed through the starboard lookout port. Darling fell with a moan, blood streaming from his head. The pallid lips made no sound, and the eyes remained closed. A terrible rage woke in Arkel's breast.

He jerked around toward the now river and averted his eyes and burst into frantic speech: "Loud, loud you devils! Loud up an' give them hell! They've killed him—killed him, curse them!"

Like a great shell herself, the Miracle shot forward.

Through the windows of the floor and sides Meade could look down and forward. The Miracle had swept west and turned and was coming back into the eye of the sun.

Below their advance stretched a grouping of Japanese about several long barreled weapons, into which, as he watched, they were thrusting slender pointed shaped missiles, which he knew must be the dreaded aerial bombs. Once discharged, they would unfold their wings and fly on their mission of death.

Even as he recognized the thought, layards snapped. A faint haze of smokeless powder rose from the biting muzzles of the great rifles, and their crews fell upon them for reloading.

Behind them an ammunition train stood parked, and from it other men were running to and fro with the bombs for the now open breeches.

What the magicians had started their concussion finished by exploding a great part of the aerial bombs themselves.

Arkel, Arkel! Tell Berlinc, tell her!

And that was all. His lips closed forever. The brave spirit had gone.

Arkel and Belden worked on the Berlinc to put her trim for attack on the Japanese fleet on the Pacific coast. The second day after the death of Darling Arkel went into the laboratory to confer with Belden, only to be greeted by the sight of the old man's blood stained body lying on the floor. Papers were littered over the floor, and locked desk drawers were broken open.

After much difficulty Belden was revived. He explained that Colonel Gotz had sought the plans of the Stillman airships, knowing that no patrols had as yet been seen for the Indian plains and other features. Belden had resisted Gotz, although he had been one of his employees many years. Gotz, in his anger at failing to get the plans, struck the old man down with an iron bar.

Arkel summoned an ambulance, and on the way to the hospital Belden said: "I am badly hurt. Send for Miss Gethilda. I have something important to say, for I know how much she thinks of Meade Stillman."

NEW PLAITED SKIRTS.

Comfortable and Graceful, It Is No Wonder They Are Popular.

SMART PLAITED SKIRT

Some of the latest tunics are open in front to show the long skirt beneath. They reach well below the knee.

Handkerchiefs are used for entire skirts. Indeed, it is said that ruffled generally will be very important this fall.

Up pockets are still a feature of some skirts. On sports skirts there are flat patch pockets. On some of the new plaid skirts small pockets are stitched over the plaid, and pockets are occasionally applied on skirt with smooth fitting valves. Then there are the looped pockets on some of the new skirts, finished along the top with a little embroidery or broiderie.

The skirt illustrated here is of dark blue or black silk, closely but plaited. A deep, circular girdle of black satin may be worn with black sateen or of blue satin if the skirt is of blue serge.

Fashionable Colors. Brilliant tango colors in material are not in good style. The soft, almost dull shades are to be featured for street and evening wear, and the beauty of the costumes is to be centered in the rich trimming with which they are adorned.

A Legal Difference. The Client—How much will your opinion be worth in this case? The Lawyer—I'm too modest to say. But I can tell you what I'm going to charge you for it—Cleveland Leader.

ON WHAT DAY WERE YOU BORN?

There is a very old rhyme that foretells the character of the fate of every babe according to the day of the week on which it happened to be born.

Need it be said that, as in another case, "Sunday's the best day of all."

Born on a Monday.

Fair of face.

Born on a Tuesday.

Born on a Wednesday.

Merry and glad.

Born on a Thursday.

Sad and sad.

Born on a Friday.

Never shafts the week.

CONNELLSVILLE

OPENING EXHIBIT OF CORRECT FASHIONS FOR EARLY WINTER

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23rd AND 24th.

This all-over-the-store exposition is, in every sense, a second opening this season, and just as important—if not more so—as the earlier display of Fall apparel and accessories of dress.

Fall Fashions in women's apparel—millinery, suits, dresses and wraps shown earlier, have been so improved and, in some instances, so decidedly changed, that followers of correct form in dress must make certain additions to their wardrobes. We don't mean to say that Fall Fashions are so far eclipsed by the newer dress as to make them passe, but rather that the newer apparel is more suited for winter wear, and in designing it, newer ideas of cut and trimming were incorporated.

This exposition of winter merchandise features:

—Millinery trimmed with fur and novel, metal-like feathers.

—New dresses for dinner, party, reception, theater and church wear. These are store-owned, and quite the prettiest creations we've ever assembled. No two are exactly alike and some are reproductions of very high-priced models.

The prices are astonishingly low—Julia Sanderson copy (even to the monkey fur trimmings) is $19.75.

—Women's suits of military cut; and suits fur trimmed, velvet trimmed, and combined with velvet. Also, suits with two and three tier skirts.

—Women's and children's coats for winter wear: White chinchilla; long model, American cloth coats; box-back coats.

—New skirts, some a combination of velvet and broadcloth; some fur-trimmed; some cut perfectly plain.

—New dress goods, cloakings and dress trimmings of fur, metal, silk, wool, crystal and net.

—Complete stocks of winter underwear, lingerie, bedding and such.

—New art needlework to be finished for Christmas-giving.

—New damask and decorative linens for the Thanksgiving table.

—New clothing for men and boys; new footwear for the family; new tableware, kitchen wares, rugs, carpets and curtains for the home.

OPENING!

Winter-Wear Millinery

FEATURING

Small, as well as medium and large hats, trimmed with monkey fur, kolinsky, weasel, mink and Russian sitch.

AND HATS

decorated with a new fancie—a combination of ostrich and fur, trade-named "chinchilla." Also new, the use of fur bands as a background for flowers of metal and silk.

You'll like the new millinery for winter wear. So many clever and loveable ideas have been worked out, and presented in such a charming manner, you'll say that no season showed prettier modes.

—And prices are not high, at all!

There's no change in hat sizes. The tiny affair is still as much favored as the hat of larger proportions. And black is yet the vogue! And velvet, also.

Trimmings are different—decidedly! Besides the new effects mentioned above, pheasant feathers, "metalized," are held in place—standing straight up—with ornaments of fur.

The metal tones are in perfect harmony with the fur colors, so the combination of metal-effects with fur, is attractive.

White black is liked, the all-black hat is now brightened with a touch of color. Perhaps it's only a brilliant-toned bud-relieving the midnight look—but a touch of color it should have.

The Millinery you will wear later is on view Friday and Saturday, in the beautiful millinery room, second floor, front. See it now, and make your choice from the full assortment.

OPENING!

Winter-Wear Suits

SHOWING THESE FEATURES:

Velvet and broadcloth combined; broad tail (fabric fur) used with velvet; military effects in cut and trimming.

LONG AND SHORT COATS

Are in equal favor with fashion. The military-like suits have short coats and skirts with all-around tiers, or tiered fronts and tulip backs. Long coat suits—Redingote models—are improved.

The notable changes in newer styled suits are set forth above. The suit you've bought is in good taste—and correct form—for all winter wear.

—Provided, it is of a texture to guard you against cold winds.

Cheviot weaves are now to the front, although broadcloth, velvet, wool ottoman, English cords, Gabardine and the serge weaves are still popular for dressy suits.

Some of the new models, which we hope you will see, are ornamented with curious concocts of wool and silk. And some of the new suits, not otherwise military, have high, close-fitting collars.

Suit colors are: black, navy, brown tones, Russian green and plum. Suit prices are:

$15, $19.75, $25 to $65

Please Note—Our Room of fashions (second) is the largest and finest in this vicinity. We show the greatest variety of suit models of any store here. Our prices are proven lowest in town, and this store can save you the most money.

Exquisite Day and Evening Wear Dresses

CORRECTLY STYLED FOR AFTERNOON AFFAIRS, DANCES, THEATER WEAR, PARTY AND CHURCH.

$15.00, $19.75, $25.00 and $29.75 each

—AMONG THEM, A REPRODUCTION OF THE FAMOUS JULIA SANDERSON EVENING DRESS.

This store, and a few others widely scattered, maintain an office in New York, under the direction of a wide-awake merchandising experts for each department. The duty of this office is to serve the stores that uphold it, in any manner that will benefit store and patron alike. The different stores are agreed upon quality, and the office takes no account of anything that doesn't measure up to a satisfactory standard.

The office manager, in conversation with a maker of above-the-average frocks and gowns, suggested that if these high-class garments could be made at a certain lower price, he'd undertake to dispose of a much larger quantity than usual.

By the way, the maker is the same who regularly has supplied us with the lovely apparel you've seen here each season. The prices have generally been $35 and upward, on account of the materials used and the expert, careful making.

Giving thought to the office manager's suggestion, he saw a way to follow out the idea. By substituting commoner, but really more substantial materials in hidden places, he could just about meet the price requirement. At the same time, his dress would lose none of its style-look, and the exterior fabrics, none of their quality or charm.

For example: A ravishing creation lost none of its exclusiveness by having the part under the tunic a cotton texture, ending in a silk drop, instead of the entire thing being all silk. A waist lining could be cotton, as well as silk—and who but the wearer would know?

Outwardly, these dresses are just as fine, and as style-perfect, and as aristocratic, as any of any time before. The only noticeable difference is the much lessened price.

See them, examine them, try them on. No two are exactly alike. The price of each is lower than your dressmaker plus the cost of goods and trimming, could make it for—no matter what quality of goods were under the surface.

A brief description of a few of the dresses follow:

J—Empire dress in black and gold. Five-ruffle drop or cream lace over chiffon crepe. Long bodice of velvet. $25.00

K—Party dress of shadow lace and charmeuse. Coll. blue and cream. Lace waist, deep bodice, draped over skirt. $25.00

N—Afternoon dress of all-black velvet and satin. Lace waist, lace bodice, draped over skirt. $25.00

O—Church dress of velvet, satin and chiffon. Bouffant of green satin; sleeves of black velvet. $25.00

Besides the models just described, the stock is enriched with fine dresses costing more money, and very complete with dresses costing the less; the sturdy, large garments for utility wear.

OPENING!

Winter-Wear Coats

FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN

For now, and all winter, three-quarter length coats of whitest chinchilla. Belted or box backs, $12.50 up.

AND COLLEGE COATS—$10

Other coats, medium to long, are of Zibeline, Boucle, English Bayadore, Broadcloth and Novelty Weaves. Some are lined. Backs are plain, belted or belt effect. Colors are unusual.

The winter coats are warm, prettily colored—solid tones of gray, brown, blue or black; mixed tones—a mingling of several colors; plaid effects and Tartan checks.

Fur fabric coats are shown—some with real fur collars. Prices of wool coats are $10 to $35; of fabric fur, $85, $99.75, $122.50.

Children's coats are in pretty styles, and of a dozen different textures; half a dozen distinct colors and numberless color-combinations. Sizes start at 2 years and prices at $3.50.

DRY GOODS STORE DIVISIONS

—New cloakings will be on display. The textures are woven for warmth, without weight. The colorings are soft-toned, harmonious, oddly applied and very uncommon.

Dress textures are in a great variety of different weaves and weights. Black and navy blue seem to be preferred, although every other likable color—brown, and its various shades, plum, gray and others, are in stock. Broadcloth, gabardine, the serges, English cords, crepe weaves, wool-and-silk mixtures and novelty weaves are used for suits, dresses and wraps.

—See the Silks! Many weaves, grades, colors and effects for day and evening wear clothes; fancy work; lingerie and negligee apparel.

—And the Trimmings! Crystal, metal, silk, wool, sheer laces and combined fabrics.

—Other requisites, in full assortments are: Gloves, neckwear, toilet articles, hosiery—First floor.

Blankets, comforts and novelties, knit, cotton, lisle, wool and silk-mixed under-wear; art needlework and needlework accessories—Second floor.
